Past event

Information / Description:

After over three years of working with local authorities and policymakers across Europe to accelerate the uptake of Sustainable Urban Mobility Plans (SUMP), CIVITAS SUMP-Up is drawing to a close.

It is organising a final event to share its wide-ranging results and multitude of SUMP tools and publications with Europe's transport community.

Join on Wednesday 19 February, 09:30 - 13:00 CET, in Brussels (Belgium) to hear how the project has helped shape Europe's SUMP landscape and decision-makers, experts and towns and cities discuss SUMP from a wide variety of perspectives.

The morning will open with a series of interventions from European policymakers - including Herald Ruijters, Director, DG MOVE, European Commission - contextualising SUMP within the wider world of transport and exploring why they and urban mobility are crucial to tackling the climate crisis.

Following this, the recently launched SUMP Guidelines, forthcoming SUMP Self-Assessment Tool and other SUMP-Up products will be introduced by the SUMP-Up team. The first half of the morning will end with an analysis of national SUMP frameworks.

In the second half, towns and cities from across Europe and the SUMP spectrum will take the stage. Through a variety of interactive formats, attendees will discover the unique SUMP stories of participants from the project's SUMP Learning Programme.

How have their experiences in SUMP-Up changed mobility planning in their cities? What have they learned from other cities? What is the daily reality of their SUMP-related work? What support do they still need from the national and European level?

A networking breakfast and lunch provide further chances to meet and debate on these crucial questions with SUMP peers from across Europe.

Registration and further information on the agenda and event venue will follow very soon
