Information / Description:

The organisers of the Sustainable Innovation Forum are delighted to convene the Climate Innovation Forum 2019, during the first London Climate Action Week, which will take place between 1-8 July 2019.

For over a decade, the Sustainable Innovation Forum has been one of the largest official side events at the annual UN COP meetings, bringing together international policy makers, business and finance to catalyse collaboration and innovation for climate action. The Climate Innovation Forum 2019 in London will be the first in a series of regional events aimed at championing innovation to accelerate the zero carbon economy.

The Forum will focus on four key themes:

- Zero carbon energy
- Zero carbon buildings
- Zero carbon mobility
- Zero waste

The event hopes to develop cross-sector collaboration to develop and deliver innovative products, services and systems that can be implemented at the city, national or international level.

Key speakers include:

- Barbara Buchner, Executive Director, Climate Policy Initiative
- Christina Gamboa, CEO, World Green Building Council
- Simeon Agada, Head of Clean Energy and Advanced Economies, BEIS
- Meyam Omi, Head of Sustainability & Responsible Investment Strategy, Legal and General
