The COVID-19 pandemic has resulted in unprecedented disruptions to urban mobility systems across the globe yet also presented unique opportunities for people to drive less, walk and cycle more and reduce carbon emissions.

Oxford Martin School are hosting an online discussion focusing on the post-pandemic mobility futures in relation to the re-imagining of transport systems across different geographical scales and contexts. Speakers include:

- Professor Tim Schwanen (Director of the Transport Studies Unit and Lead Researcher on the Oxford Martin Programme on Informal Cities)
- Dr Jennie Middleton (Senior Research Fellow in Mobilites and Human Geography in the Transport Studies Unit, University of Oxford)
- Professor Jim Hall (Professor of Climate and Environmental Risk, Environmental Change Institute, University of Oxford)

The online discussion will be held on 12 November 2020 at 17:00 - 18:00 GMT.

For further information and to register for the online event, please visit the event website.