Information / Description:

TRANSPORT LEARNING carries out training events about sustainable urban transport strategies in 8 European countries.

The training courses target employees of municipalities and energy agencies in particular. The courses are held by international mobility experts and carried out in national languages, using simultaneous translation.

The training consists of 2 blocks:

- 2-days technical training
- practical training (implementation of mini-projects)

The mini-projects are carried out by the trainees to put the new knowledge directly into practice. During the whole process of training and implementation the trainees are guided through the learning process by their trainers.
