Automated driving, SUMPs and the citizen

Tom Cohen

UCL Centre for Transport Studies, UK
Automated driving, SUMPs and the citizen

• Surveys versus deliberation
Would you use a fully driverless vehicle?
(UK Autodrive 2016 survey results)

- 15% definitely not
- 18% probably not
- 31% not sure
- 26% probably
- 10% definitely

What would you use a self-driving vehicle for?

- Shopping: 23%
- Commuting: 22%
- Social/leisure: 22%
- Visiting friends: 21%
- Drinking: 15%

Autodrive Final Report, 2019
Proposals and issues raised by participants in the French debate on driverless vehicles.
Automated driving, SUMPs and the citizen

- Surveys versus deliberation
- Citizen as consumer/user or as citizen
Automated driving, SUMPs and the citizen

- Surveys versus deliberation
- Citizen as consumer/user or as citizen
- It’s about more than sharing!
Automated driving, SUMPs and the citizen

- Surveys versus deliberation
- Citizen as consumer/user or as citizen
- It’s about more than sharing!
- Asking versus selling
PAVE IS A COALITION OF INDUSTRY, NONPROFIT AND ACADEMIC INSTITUTIONS WITH ONE GOAL:

To inform the public about automated vehicles and their potential so everyone can fully participate in shaping the future of transportation.

MEET PAVE

https://pavecampaign.org/
Automated driving, SUMPs and the citizen

- Surveys versus deliberation
- Citizen as consumer/user or as citizen
- It’s about more than sharing!
- Asking versus selling
- Participation – witting and unwitting
Shared, Electric and Automated Mobility (SEAM) Governance Framework
Prototype for North America and Europe